Andrew C. Kessler Speaks About Organics Recycling Business Development at New York Solid Waste and Recycling Conference

BREWSTER, NEW YORK (May 10, 2010) – Turning Earth, LLC invites you to join Andrew C. Kessler, Managing Director and a Founding Member of Turning Earth, at a round table discussion about organics diversion, the need to develop increased organics recycling capacity to meet growing demand, and developing a robust and mature organics management industry at the New York Solid Waste and Recycling Conference on May 17, 2010 at the Sagamore Resort on Lake George, Bolton Landing, New York.

The round table discussion entitled “Connect the Rots: Compost Exchange” will be moderated by Gary Feinland, NYSDEC, Bureau of Solid Waste, Reduction and Recycling from 2:00 to 3:30pm in the Abenia room.

“There is more generator interest to divert organic materials from disposal than there is capacity to accept. While there is expertise in the state, stakeholders are not well connected resulting in less than optimal diversion of organics. The purpose of this round table discussion is to: 1) identify practical ways to divert more organics from the waste stream, 2) economically market the resulting products, and 3) make lasting connections to mature the organics management industry.”

Mr. Kessler joins fellow organics recycling and related industry leaders, including: Jean Bonhotal, Cornell Waste Management Institute; Geoffrey Kuter, Agresource; Christopher Balfe, SE Linden Environmental; Tom Lawson, NorthEast Biogas; Brian Fleury & Jeff LeBlanc, WeCare Organics; and Tom Bourne, Metro Waste Paper Recovery in this discussion.
